

It can be anticipated that opportunities for in-person events will continue to become more available in 2022. The Symposium requires interchanges in close proximity with multiple presentations occurring in the same space simultaneously. It is for this reason we have decided to hold the 2022 Undergraduate Research Symposium as a virtual event again this year.

2021

December 10 – deadline to return signed agreement (commitment to participate in all Symposium activities)

2022

February 1 – interim research progress report (form to be provided)

March 4 – complete research

March 18 – submit final abstract and presentation (PowerPoint suggested)

March 30* - presentation preparation session – Advance registration required.

March 25 – confirm presentation date and time with ICUNJ from offerings below

April 4 – kickoff Symposium week

Presentations will be conducted using Zoom. Each student will present to a team of judges during a timed Zoom meeting (25 MINUTES) in a breakout room. Students will have the ability to share their screen during the presentation. Judges will have the opportunity to raise questions during the presentation. It will require careful planning to meet strictly enforced presentation timeline. Two planning sessions will be offered to assist students in preparation.

*indicates optional event – students are encouraged to participate but participation is not mandatory
